Daniels Explains Ruling

When Secretary Daniels' attention was called this afternoon to Admiral Grant's textimony concerning Commander McDowell, he said he would have the master looked up. He stated that he had given the D. S. M. to Captain Chase on the recommendation of Admiral Gleaves and Admiral Mayo.

Quality of Training Praised
"In order to understand the basis of these recommendations," said Admira! Grant, "it should be understood that upon the force under my command, comprising twenty-four battleships, that had to be kept up to the mark for any sudden call to meet the enemy, was placed the unusual duty of training and turning out approximately 40,000 officers and enlisted men to man the merchant ships of our country. Included among those thus turned out were 800 armed guard crews. This work in large measure fell upon these eieven men, and the quality of the
